

Are you hoping to pursue a career in psychology? Would you like to gain experience of a busy private practice group environment? Would you like the opportunity to find out more about being a practitioner psychologist by working alongside highly experienced city based psychologists?

City Psychology Group is a busy London-based private practice group of Clinical and Counselling Psychologists and we provide opportunities for individuals to undertake 6 month placements working as part-time assistant psychologists. This is an unpaid role.

- Do you have good administrative skills and enjoy this type of work?
- Do you have 1-2 days a week including an evening available?
- Are you keen to enhance your CV?
- Are you organised with a good eye for detail?
- Are you passionate about a career in psychology?

If so then please send a covering email (subject heading: Advertised Assistant Psychologist Placement) and a copy of your CV to jobs@citypsychology.com. Your details will be kept securely on file and reviewed during the next round of shortlisting. If you are successful during shortlisting we will contact you and invite you to take part in the next part of the process.

The placement may include but is not necessarily limited to the following activities:

- Assisting with various aspects of running a private practice group including, many administrative duties, meeting and greeting clients, market research, contributing to website content
- Assisting with the psychometric testing service including administration of tests to individuals
- Contributing to professional presentations and writing articles
- Contributing to and assisting with research and audit
- Face-to-face contact with clinicians and participation in training and team meetings, including the opportunity to attend group supervision.

All contributions will be supervised by a Chartered Psychologist.
