

City Psychology Group (CPG) is recruiting NOW for the position of 'Clinical Affiliate' to form part of its team of psychology experts.

We are an independent group practice of highly skilled Practitioner Psychologists with varying degrees of experience and expertise. We have strong links with a range of other healthcare consultants both within the NHS and the private sector. Our busy practice is backed up by an experienced and efficient administration and customer care service. We provide clinical, counselling, occupational and coaching psychology services of the highest quality via remote online video sessions or at either of our popular London premisses which include Harley Street, Liverpool Street and Canary Wharf.

We work with people of all ages, individuals, families and groups experiencing a variety of emotional and psychological problems. Most of our client group consists of top corporate executives.

CPG continues to grow day by day, week by week and we are currently looking for skilled practitioners to join our thriving, vibrant and fast-growing group practice.

OPPORTUNITY

Due to expansion and increased demand, City Psychology Group (CPG) urgently requires additional Clinical or Counselling psychologists to help us with the ever-increasing stream of private referrals. We offer flexible part-time working if you want to supplement your main work within the NHS. Alternatively, full-time work is also available should you chose to increase your availability. The job may suit a wide range of expertise: Integrative, Psychodynamic, CBT, ADHD, Relationships, Couples, Trauma, Stress, Mindfulness, and more: whatever your particular interest is, you will work with the specific type of clients you prefer.

We are looking for BPS Chartered and HCPC Registered Counselling or Clinical Psychologists.

PLEASE DO NOT APPLY IF YOU ARE NOT HCPC REGISTERED.

If you are passionate about psychological therapy, enjoy working within a team environment and have an excellent academic record with a proven track record of success in the practice of psychology, then CPG would like to hear from you now!

JOB ROLE DESCRIPTION

- Let us know what specialisms you have an interest in, and we will align clients to you accordingly.
- We have clinicians who work both within the face to face and online remote capacity whilst benefiting from our London based consulting rooms providing flexibility to both clinicians and clients alike
- Once you join our friendly and supportive team, we will support you with full administration, billing and secretarial/administrative services
- For a suitable candidate, our remuneration package is highly competitive for psychologists working as independent contractors
- Due to the flexibility of the hours, you can engage anything from a couple of hours per day up to several hours per week depending on your ongoing availability
- If you prefer to keep your job within the NHS then this is a great opportunity to extend your experience into the private sector without having to forgo your career within the National Health Service
- We operate from Monday to Saturday offering clinical sessions from 8am to 10pm on most days which in turn supports those wishing to maintain both the NHS and Private Role concurrently
- If you are already operating independently in private practice you will benefit from our administration, customer service and accounts teams which in turn enables you to focus on providing quality care to our clients
- Any referrals of clients or clinicians made by you into CPG will qualify for increased earnings through our popular referral schemes
